Feb 24, 2026

Washington, D.C. – The Conference of State Bank Supervisors (CSBS) has named Sabrina Bergen to a new role as Chief of Staff to the President and CEO.

In this role, Bergen will serve on the CSBS Executive Leadership Team and support efforts to coordinate strategic, cross-functional initiatives and help drive execution on CSBS priorities. She will continue to play a vital role in supporting policy advocacy, including engagement with stakeholders across industry, Congress, and our federal partners.

“Sabrina has a deep understanding of the legal, regulatory, and policy forces transforming financial services in the United States. Her expertise, tenacity, and commitment will be critical as CSBS works to support our members and increase efficiency, effectiveness, and coordination across the state system,” said CSBS President and CEO Brandon Milhorn.

Bergen joined CSBS in August 2024 as Chief of Staff for Policy and Supervision, bringing deep experience from her prior roles at the American Bankers Association and the National Association of State Credit Union Supervisors. Since joining CSBS, she has supported several critical advocacy efforts, particularly on digital asset and preemption issues.
